DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to the amendment filed 13 June 2005.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 13 and 34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Takahashi et al. (U.S. Patent 5,618,749).

Takahashi discloses a semiconductor device (Figs. 11 and 12) that comprises a semiconductor layer, an MOS transistor (G) formed on the semiconductor layer, a resistive conductive layer (R/2) formed on the semiconductor layer, a silicon nitride layer (1) (protective layer) formed on the resistive conductive layer and an oxide layer (8) (insulating layer) formed on the side of the resistive layer.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takahashi in view of Kanda et al. (U.S. Publication 2003/0034531).

Takahashi discloses all the limitations except for a high and low breakdown voltage transistor. Whereas Kanda discloses a semiconductor device (Fig. 28) that contains a MOS high voltage breakdown transistor (HV) and a low voltage breakdown transistor (LV) of insulated gate types formed on a semiconductor layer (100), where the high voltage transistor includes a proof voltage between a source and drain, which is different from the low breakdown voltage transistor. The high and low breakdown voltage transistors are formed so the high voltage act as an actuation output module to have a high withstanding breakdown voltage and the low voltage transistor to act as a logic module for controlling the actuation output module. (Page 1, Paragraph 4)

Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate high and low breakdown voltage transistors so the high voltage act as an actuation output module to have a high withstanding breakdown voltage and the low voltage transistor to act as a logic module for controlling the actuation output module as taught by Kanda.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 13,17 and 34 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
